

One thing I HIGHLY recommend is that you get this book (read a blurb about it in InStyle or some wedding magazine), "Jewelry Savvy: What every jewelry wearer should know" by Cynthia A. Sliwa and Caroline Stanley. This book is AWESOME because it tells you how to identify your face shape and suggests the best style of earring to complement your face and even the type of ear you have. I'm actually glad the first pair of earrings didn't turn out well anyway because they are all wrong for my face shape apparently. And when I got home, I noticed they weren't as flattering as I thought. Then I read the book and figured out that the drop pear shaped were the best for me, and not too long past my jaw. Very good book if you are picky about your accessories.

I was going back and forth about whether or not I should wear a bracelet...I got this one from Nordstrom (Nadri) and I like that it's simple. But I also LOVE these Regina B bracelets.
